

Gen. Van Fleet Suggested For Indochina Task

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) suggested today that Gen. James A. Van Fleet would "make a good man" to head a U. S. military mission to train native anti-Communist troops in Indochina.

Knowland, who heads the Senate GOP Policy Committee and is a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he does not believe Van Fleet's obvious differences with Gen. Omar N. Bradley over Korean policy should make any difference on such an assignment.

Van Fleet, who led troops in Korea for 22 months, has said the war ought to be pushed to a decision because, he maintains, conditions there are more favorable to the Allies than to the Communists. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has said an all-out aggressive move might touch off the wrong war at the wrong time in the wrong place.

The Eisenhower administration has earmarked 400 million dollars in proposed new foreign aid funds for use in financing the training, equipping and even paying of troops fighting the Reds in Indochina.

This is in addition to 60 million dollars in special aid Harold E. Stassen, the mutual security director, said yesterday has been transferred to the French government out of foreign aid money. Stassen said the French would use the money on their home finances, thereby releasing funds for Indochina use.

Alger Hiss Book Held For Errors

NEW YORK (AP)—Publication in this country of a new book on Alger Hiss, by Britain's former lord chancellor, has been postponed. Some 5,000 copies already distributed have been recalled.

The book—"The Strange Case of Alger Hiss" by Earl Jowitt, Britain's lord chancellor from 1945 to 1951—appeared last week in England. British reviewers claimed to have found errors in it.

Doubleday & Company, the American publishers, said yesterday that some changes have been made in the American edition. The firm did not explain further. It said the book definitely will be published at a later date.

Jowitt's book is a study of Hiss' second Federal Court perjury trial in the light of British trial procedure. Hiss was convicted at this trial in 1950 and is now serving a five-year prison term. A former U. S. State Department employee, he was accused of lying when he denied passing government secrets to a prewar Soviet spy ring.

Sabre Jets Rip Red Troop Area

By MILO FARNEM
SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets—flying double duty as fighters and bombers—today shot down two Communist MIGs and smashed a big Red troop concentration center in Korea.

Thirty-six sleek, swept-wing Sabres, in one of their biggest strikes as fighter-bombers, flattened 45 buildings in a troop concentration area near the Panmunjom truce conference site the Air Force said. The attack followed by a few hours low-level sky battles deep in Northwest Korea which sent two Russian-built MIGs spinning to earth.

The Sabre jets were guarding F4 Thunderjet fighter-bombers which hit Red oil and ammunition dumps at Kuop, about 15 miles southeast of the Yalu River border city of Sinuiju. The Air Force said 13 buildings were destroyed.

East Germany Agrees To Join With Czechs In Million-Man Army

By TOM REEDY
BERLIN (AP)—West German sources reported today that Red-led East Germany and Czechoslovakia have signed an agreement to organize a joint million-man army by this time next year.

Details of the reported agreement were disclosed by the publication "Archiv," which extracts considerable information from anti-Communist sources in the Soviet-controlled East Zone of Germany.

Soviets Direct Details
The West German government's Ministry for All-German Affairs regarded the report so important that its Berlin bureau issued copies in its own name. Archiv said the agreement was reached March 14 in Karlovy Vary, Czechoslovakia, by Willi Stoph, East German interior minister, Gen. Vincent Mueller, a former Nazi who is now chief of staff of the East German Army, and three

Port Security Tightening Up

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON (AP)—Top Coast Guard officials told Congress in testimony released today the security of America's ports probably cannot be made airtight in peacetime.

But the officials said they made "significant improvement" in tightening port security last year.

The Coast Guard undertook a limited security program, worked out in 1950, after former President Truman declared America's ports were endangered by subversive activities.

Vice Adm. Merlin O'Neill, the commandant, told a House appropriations subcommittee that progress was made last year in 10 major port areas where security hazards were checked. He said seamen and longshoremen were screened "to keep subversive elements" off the waterfront.

Rear Adm. A. C. Richmond, assistant commandant, testified the security program "represents, quite frankly, a compromise of a number of ideas."

"I do not think," he added, "that anybody can say that the present port security program is 100 per cent effective."

"I do not believe in times like these that the United States generally is prepared to accept either the expense or the interference with normal life of an all-out port security program."

Eisenhower Visits With His Brother

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived here today to spend the weekend with his youngest brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College.

The seven-car Presidential special train backed into the station at 6:18 a. m. EST.

The President was accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother, Mrs. John S. Dowd.

The train left Washington last night at 10:59 p. m. and had an uneventful trip.

unnamed representatives of the Czech government. The publication said a Soviet Marshal Gonorov also was present.

The U. S. High Commission's newspaper in Berlin, Neue Zeitung, reported March 22 that East Germany and Czechoslovakia had agreed to a system of exchanging military information and training that had been worked out in Czechoslovakia by Soviet Marshal Leonid A. Gonorov, commander of Russia's Leningrad front during World War II.

Train In Moscow
According to Archiv, the general terms of the agreement reportedly provided for:

1. A goal of a million-man force by May, 1954.
2. Coordinated military training, with the exchange of Czech and East German officers in groups of 300 each.
3. Training of East German and Czech officers at the Soviet Military Academy in Moscow.
4. Assignment of 100 Soviet officers now on duty in the two countries to teach the courses at the academy in Moscow.
5. Coordination of both forces in the use of Soviet weapons and ammunition.
6. Interweaving of transport systems of both countries.

Archiv quoted its informants as saying that the net result of the pact may be the formation of a mutual alliance for defense.

News That Budget Can't Be Balanced Irks Republicans

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Republicans expressed dismay today at Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's statement that the budget can not be balanced next year and that the 275 billion dollar limit on the national debt may have to be raised.

Few wanted to discuss on the record what this did to hopes for a tax reduction soon. But one GOP member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee told reporters who sought comment:

"Gentlemen, that's a damned unpleasant subject."

Another Republican senator said he had "heard rumors" Humphrey's Treasury Department was drafting a tax message to Congress. But he said he did not know what was in it.

Rep. Taber (R-NY), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and long a leader in budget-cutting drives, said he still has hope the budget can be balanced in the year starting July 1.

"I believe we can convince them (administration officials) it will be balanced," Taber said.

House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) said he does not believe

Communists Questioned About Korea POW Plan

Death Takes Coleman Nee At Age Of 91

Coleman Nee, patriarch of Escanaba businessmen, died in his sleep early this morning at the family home, 430 Lake Shore Drive. He was 91 years of age.

Although he had been in failing health in recent months, Mr. Nee was active in his business affairs and in community activities right up to the time of his death. He passed away sometime after midnight.

Mr. Nee sustained a fractured hip several years ago and was hospitalized then for the only time in his life. He made a remarkable recovery, however, and resumed his business activities.

Started Work At 15

Mr. Nee was born in Fort Ark-inson, Wisconsin Nov. 17, 1861. His formal education was meager and he frequently told friends that he had never completed a full year in grade school at one time. Finally he quit school after the fifth grade and at the age of 15 he took his first job as a farmer's helper.

In 1880 Mr. Nee came to the Upper Peninsula and worked in the mines at Vulcan. In November, 1881 he entered the employment of the bridge and building division of the Chicago and North Western Railroad in Wisconsin, later transferring to Escanaba.

He transferred to the operating division of the railroad in 1887 and became a fireman. Later he was promoted to engineer.

In 1901 Mr. Nee purchased the fuel business of Ed Donovan and has been engaged in this business for the past 52 years in the same location, 108 N. 10th St.

Starting Contracting Business

He organized the Delta Contracting Company and was the company president for many years. The company constructed many roads, bridges and sewer installations throughout the Upper Peninsula and in Wisconsin. The company was highly successful and was one of the leading contracting companies in this area until advancing age prompted Mr. Nee to retire from the business.

Mr. Nee was married to the former Margaret Jane Glavin June 20, 1900. Mrs. Nee, who is in ill health, survives. Two daughters, Mrs. M. R. Deo (Marjorie), Washington, D. C.; and Mrs. John J.

Swimmer Denies Hitting Daughter

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla. (AP)—Russell Tongay came to this Florida town today to bury his five-year-old swim-star daughter, Kathy. Miami police charged Kathy died as the result of a whipping but he insists she died as the result of an "unfortunate accident."

With Tongay was his slender blonde wife, Betty, and their son, Bubba. Kathy's body had been sent by train from Miami where she died Wednesday.

The husky, 36-year-old ex-Coast Guardsman was booked at Miami on a second degree murder charge and released under $5,000 bond for a hearing set for June 11.

"We are going to my home in Tarpon Springs to bury Kathy," Mrs. Tongay said before they left Miami by trailer late yesterday. "We need to be alone to sit and think this thing out. We may be there for some time. My mother is very ill."

Tongay denied he had beaten Kathy, as charged. He said he had given full details to Miami police—that Kathy was injured while practicing high dives from a 33-foot springboard a few hours before she died in convulsions.

Wife Locks Up Records Of Red

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harvey M. Matusow, self-styled former Communist who has promised Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) a list of all the Reds he knows in the news field, was denied access to his records last night by his wife.

Two policemen who accompanied Matusow to his fashionable residence said this is what happened:

Matusow stopped their patrol car and they went with him to his home where they were met by Mrs. Matusow, apparently angry. She permitted her husband to take his clothes but refused to unlock the library where the records are kept.

At the request of McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Investigations Committee, Matusow last Wednesday agreed to undertake what the senator called the "monumental task" of listing "all the Communists who have infiltrated the various news media."

Plane Plunge Kills Three At Moab, Utah

MOAB, Utah (AP)—Three men were killed when an airplane crashed and burned three miles from Moab last night.

The bodies were burned beyond recognition, but the three were believed to be John H. Hershey and C. Kenneth Hicken of Salt Lake City, and Ron Johns, oil editor for the Denver Post.

In Salt Lake City, Harlon W. Bement, Utah aeronautics director, said the plane was identified from a serial number on an unburned portion of the wing as belonging to Hershey.

Mrs. Hershey said her husband left Salt Lake City Friday afternoon with Hicken and Johns as passengers.

Johns had been oil editor of the Denver Post eight months, and at one time had been oil editor of the Tyler, Texas, Courier-Times and Telegraph.

Transport Tumbles In Flames; 18 Dead In New Delhi Crash

By HAROLD K. MILKS
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—An Air India C47 transport plane crashed in flames early today carrying 18 persons to their deaths. The victims included two Americans—one, a school teacher whose two companions died a week ago in another tragic air crash.

The two American victims were identified as Miss Pauline Lehman, 26, of Mountain Lake, Minn., and Ramchand Watumull, 40, of Honolulu, an Indian-born member of a wealthy Hawaiian family.

The two-engined plane went down shortly after it took off here into a summer monsoon storm on a routine five hour flight to Bombay. The crash came within a week after 43 persons, including three Americans, died last Saturday in the crash of a British jet Comet airliner near Calcutta.

Miss Lehman and two of the Americans killed in last Saturday's tragedy had embarked on a pleasure-bound world tour after completing exchange teaching assignments in Rangoon, Burma.

The young Minnesota school teacher, who had started the trip alone with a tour of India, had been scheduled to meet her two friends—Miss Jean S. Cohen of Baltimore, Md., and Miss Anita Whistler of Berkeley, Calif.—here last Saturday.

She was awaiting them in a hotel lobby when she heard of their tragic deaths.

"She decided it was just fate that they had died," other teacher companions said today. She booked passage herself for home via Bombay and Cairo. The companions, who helped her take her baggage to the airport bus last night, said she had no fear of flying but had lost heart in doing any sightseeing on the way home.

Federal Sales Tax Suggested To Boost Depression Revenue

By STERLING F. GREEN
HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—A federal sales tax was being explored cautiously today by the nation's top industry executives as a possible bolster for federal revenues if a recession should come.

Members of the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council, meeting in closed session here with Secretary of Commerce Weeks, conceded that so drastic a change in national tax policy could not be posed for immediate action.

They also voiced, in private conversation, the view that the business outlook is highly favorable for possibly a year ahead, and that any recession caused by dwindling defense outlays will be mild and brief.

But the opinion was widespread—and is understood to be shared by some treasury officials—that present tax policy leans too heavily on individual income and corporate taxes, which might drop sharply in a recession.

One council member remarked that "corporation taxes are really concealed sales taxes, since the consumer ultimately pays them."

School Banquet Makes 200 Sick

ANNISTON, Ala. (AP)—An estimated 200 high school boys and girls and teachers became violently ill after attending a banquet last night. Some collapsed at a gay dance following the annual junior-senior dinner.

Only two remained in a hospital and they were expected to be released later in the day.

Physicians said the illness apparently stemmed from food poisoning.

A police investigation was under way to determine the cause of the sickness, which affected more than half of the approximately 350 students and teachers who attended the dinner.

Estimates of the number stricken were made by officials of Anniston Memorial Hospital, nurses, and private physicians who attended many in their homes.

The one-story hospital was completely engulfed by the flood of nauseated youngsters and teachers.

Negotiations Continue On Michigan Bell Pay

DETROIT (AP)—Representatives of the CIO Communications Workers of America and the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. voiced optimism today on the possibilities for early agreement on a new wage contract governing 18,000 employees throughout Michigan.

Company and union representatives ended another prolonged negotiation session at 2:30 a. m. without success, but both parties agreed to resume negotiations to-day upon request of Federal and State mediators.

Federal mediators said they expected to call a meeting "perhaps late this afternoon."

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—A "Cleaner" version of Goldilocks: Mrs. Cora L. Randall returned home the other day, after month's absence, and found the vacuum cleaner had been stolen.

Allies Demand More Details In Truce Proposal

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied truce negotiators today asked question after question aimed at forcing the Communists to spell out in detail their compromise prisoner exchange plan and said "we must know the answers" before the proposal could be considered further.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. told newsmen after the 32-minute session that the barrage of questions did not mean the U. N. Command had accepted the Red plan as a basis for negotiations. "We have nothing fixed on this matter at all. I'm just probing for facts," the senior Allied delegate said.

Offer Not Clear
He said, "of course" there would be other questions to the Communists on their new plan.

Harrison's detailed questioning was centered on the Reds' proposal to have a five-nation neutral repatriation commission take custody of the 48,500 Red prisoners who refuse to return to communism.

"How would decisions be reached? Majority vote? Is there a veto?" Harrison asked the Communist negotiators.

The Reds, in their sweeping, eight-point proposal to settle the prisoner deadlock—the last major block to a Korean armistice, proposed that the commission consist of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, India and Switzerland.

Harrison indicated the U. N. Command will not accept the Reds' proposal that eventual disposition of prisoners who refuse to go home after "explanations" by their own side in neutral camps be left to a postwar political conference.

Defects Pointed Out
He asked how the new Red proposal overcomes Allied objections to the Communists' April 26 plan "by which prisoners could be detained indefinitely if your side so desires."

"We showed that, being denied any alternative to repatriation or continued captivity, the prisoners could, under that proposal be coerced into accepting repatriation," Harrison said. "We showed that the proposal did not constitute a final solution of this problem, in that it did not provide for the dis-

House Votes On Bill To Abolish Coroner

LANSING (AP)—Supporters of a bill to permit abolition of the ancient office of coroner in all Michigan counties today were busy drumming up votes for a House rollback on the measure.

Opponents came within 16 votes of killing off the Senate-approved bill yesterday on a motion to reconsider. Failure of the motion advanced the bill for a final House vote Monday evening, following the legislative weekend recess.

The measure permits county boards of supervisors to appoint medical examiners to replace the elected coroners, who once were chief officers of the English counties as representatives of the crown.

All that remains of their functions in Michigan counties is to examine and certify the cause of sudden deaths. Supporters of the proposed legislation argued that the counties should be permitted to turn that function over to professional physicians in the interest of "good sense and good management."

They said that some of the present coroners are "nothing but body-snatchers." In many counties, undertakers are elected to the job. Opponents attacked the bill as putting the counties to added expenses which many can not stand.

Rep. Louis C. Cramton (R-Lapeer) argued that there is no law against electing physicians as coroners if the people want them.

U. P. Aerial Survey To Be Made In '53

The Conservation Department and the U. S. Department of Agriculture again this year are cooperating to complete aerial photographing of the entire state, a project started last year.

Department foresters, game men and law officers will use the maps to eliminate much costly detail work now necessarily done in the field.

Most of the northern Lower Peninsula was done last year. Only Charlevoix and part of Antrim counties remain to be done this year.

Most work this year will be done in the Upper Peninsula, and surveys appear confident the entire Peninsula can be photographed before the end of fall.

The Department of Agriculture photographed the southern Lower Peninsula in 1950, but Conservation Department workers are concentrating on the two northern regions, where state ownership is more extensive.

The work is being done by professional flying services.

The bars were candy bars stolen from the Binghamton warehouse terminal.

Spring bouquets of mixed snapdragons and iris adorned the altar of the church for the service and were used in the bridal theme decorations in the home.

Chantilly Lace and Tulle

The bride's gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle was fashioned with a short Empire jacket and a full pleated skirt, chapel length, detailed with a deep panel of lace. A Juliet cap of satin and seed pearls held her shoulder length veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations, white snapdragons and red roses in cascading effect.

Mrs. Edwin Skippar, who was matron of honor for her sister, wore a ballerina length dress of dark aqua and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and white snapdragons.

Edwin Skippar served as best man.

Mrs. Zeno attended her daughter's wedding in a pink nylon dress with pink and navy accessories and Mrs. Nye wore navy blue with white accessories. Pink roses and white carnations formed their corsages.

Gladstone Hospital Committee Performs Fine Public Service

THE Gladstone committee that has been working towards the construction of a hospital in Gladstone has been performing an excellent job of public service.

Whether the Gladstone Hospital Authority is created in time to meet the deadline fixed by the state and is able to do the essential preliminary work within the short time remaining before July 1 in order to qualify for maximum federal grant is still uncertain. It is certain that the group that has been supporting the hospital program has been giving the project an excellent boost and that their progress has been noteworthy to date.

The county does need more hospital facilities. There was considerable disappointment here when plans for the expansion of St. Francis Hospital were delayed by the Sisters of the Third Order in order to concentrate on the expansion of hospital facilities of St. Mary's in Marquette.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

Not many people know what a portmanteau is nowadays. So perhaps I'd better explain it before dealing with the portmanteau word. A portmanteau (port-MAN-toe) was an old-style traveling bag, one hinged along the center-line of its back, and thus opening into two compartments.

The term portmanteau-word was first used to explain some of the interesting words that Lewis Carroll coined in "Alice in Wonderland," and "Through the Looking-glass." To quote him, "Well, 'slithy' means 'lithe and slimy' . . . You see it's like a portmanteau—there are two meanings packed up into one word," and, two pages later, "Mimsy" is 'flimsy and miserable.'" "Chortle," also coined by Carroll, is thought to be a blend of "snort" and "chuckle."

But, although Lewis Carroll gave us the name for these telescoped words, he was not the first to bring them into the language. "Blend-words," they are now sometimes called, because they are composed of a part of one word blended to that of another. Thus "dandle" is believed to be a blend of "dance" and "handle"; "boost" a blend of "boom" and "hoist," and there are many others.

It seems, however, that the chance blend is more likely to be taken into the language than one that is deliberately coined to fill a need. For example, because it has always been awkward to say, "Every pupil will pick up his or her books," or, "If John or Jean comes, I shall be glad to see him or her," and similar constructions, the word "thou," a blend of "that one," was thoughtfully devised almost a hundred years ago. Dictionaries still carry it, but no one ever uses it.

"Smog," a blend of "smoke" and "fog," was coined about fifty years ago to denote especially the dense atmosphere to which Londoners are frequently subjected. But, although American newspapers occasionally use it, the dictionaries of England don't carry it. And as for "brunch," the meal that is supposed to cover both "breakfast" and "lunch," those who use the term do so with a smirk.

Now has appeared "caprew." The intent behind this coinage is undoubtedly excellent, and the coiner, a New York judge, certainly deserves an A for effort. I don't know, however, under just what circumstances the word would be employed, but it is intended to designate brotherhood regardless of religious affiliation—whether Catholic, Protestant—or JEW.

The black-painted lips remind us that when things look darkest they're usually pretty soft.

Some women admit they want to marry for money. The American dollar goes farther than Cupid's dart.

The Doctor Says . . . Doctor Sees No Danger In Eating Proteins, Carbohydrates Together

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Many people follow food fads which have little relation to scientific knowledge of nutrition.

Q—I have recently read a book calling attention to the dangers of mixing proteins and carbohydrates in the diet. It says that mixing such foods in the same meal is very hard on the digestive system. What do you think of this?

Mrs. H. W.

A—If this was as harmful as some claim, most of us would be dead long since. I show my own disbelief of this at almost every meal.

Q—I am in my early 40's, but every night when I get in bed my arms and legs start itching terribly and I can't sleep. What can I do for this?

M. S. B.

A—This is a rather common and certainly most distressing complaint. It is a difficult thing to overcome. Possibly a skin oil would be helpful, but most people with this complaint have to experiment with a number of things and even then find relief hard to come by.

Q—I am nearing 77, am active, with a good position, and in excellent condition. During the past few weeks I have suffered with severe cramps in my legs which recur several times during my sleep. Could this be related to hardening of the arteries?

F. T.

A—Considering the circumstances mentioned, the most likely explanation is some hardening of the arteries in the legs. Perhaps not a great deal can be done for this but it would be interesting to know whether getting up and walking around when the cramps appear improves or worsens the situation. If they are severe enough to keep you awake—and perhaps in any event—it would be well to be checked over.

Q—When my husband goes into any cold place his fingers turn white and feel like ice. Please tell me what is causing this condition.

Mrs. D. W.

A—Your husband evidently gets a constriction or tightening of the blood vessels which supply his hands whenever he is exposed to cold. This happens to everyone to some degree, but in his case it is much more than average.

Since, in all probability, nothing much can be done to remedy the situation, the best step would seem to be avoidance of exposure of the hands to cold when possible and protecting them carefully by mittens, gloves or other means when exposure cannot be avoided. If he smokes, he should stop.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—An old man who came to this country from Germany at the age of eight died in New York the other day. He was almost 76, and during those years he had written more law to help the common man than any other person in the history of this nation.

Most people will remember Bob Wagner for those laws—old-age pensions, unemployment insurance, the Wagner labor relations act—and rightly so. But I shall always remember him because of a role he played in trying to get Wendell Willkie to run with Franklin Roosevelt on a coalition Democratic-Republican ticket in the closing year of the war.

Had those efforts been successful in 1944 the postwar history of the United States might have been entirely different.

I have never written this story in full, partly because I played a personal and confidential role in it. However, most of the people involved are dead now, and there is no reason why it cannot be told.

In the early summer of 1944 when it was apparent Franklin Roosevelt planned to run for a fourth term, the jockeying for No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket became intense. The friends of Henry Wallace demanded that he be renominated as vice president. Friends of Justice William O. Douglas, led by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, were less vocal but more persuasive.

Many Southern Democrats still urged Jimmie Byrnes; while the big city bosses—Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Ed Kelly of Chicago, Frank Hague of Jersey City and Bob Hannegan of St. Louis—were bent on nominating Harry Truman.

All knew that the life expectancy of the President was such that the man who became Vice President was likely to end up in the White House.

WILLKIE GETS FDR'S O. K.

During the period between his defeat in 1940 and 1944 I had come to know Wendell Willkie well. One day in New York some weeks before the Democratic convention I sounded him out on the idea of being the vice-presidential candidate on a coalition ticket.

At first he pooh-poohed the idea, said the Democrats would never go for it. But the more we talked about it, the more he warmed up. Finally he agreed to stand still until Roosevelt himself could be sounded out.

The man who did the sounding was Leo Crowley, then head of the Federal Economic Administration. He came out of the White House with the confidential information that the President would welcome the idea of Wendell Willkie as his running mate, provided there was a spontaneous move from the Democratic convention to nominate him. He added that he didn't want anything that smacked of a political deal.

Simultaneously he scribbled a note to Willkie in longhand, and it was later typed by his secretary, Grace Tully. The President left for the West Coast and Alaska almost immediately. So he never actually signed the note, but it was mailed to Willkie.

WAGNER PARK MOVE

The Chicago convention began at once. The problem there was to arrange the spontaneous move for Willkie that FDR wanted, and to this end I told Senator Wagner, the grand old man of the Democratic party, about our conversation.

He reacted with enthusiasm. His plan was to make the Willkie nominating speech himself, and he delegated Leon Keyserling, his former secretary, later head of the council of economic advisers, to start writing the speech. Wagner called in various members of the New York delegation in my presence to unfold the Willkie idea, and they too were enthusiastic. I was a little surprised that Edward Loughlin, then head of Tammany, volunteered to second Willkie's nomination.

Wagner talked to other key Democrats at Chicago while I talked to several newspapermen, among them David Stern, then publisher of the Philadelphia Record. They agreed that, faced with the deadlock between Wallace and Truman, the Willkie nomination should be a natural. They also felt that Willkie's name on the ticket would be a great thing for the unity of the nation.

Most of this took place during the preliminary days of the convention, actually before the convention got down to business.

On the day before the balloting on the vice presidency got down to grips, Wagner got word from the bosses that Roosevelt wanted Truman, not Willkie.

The senator was a man of party discipline. During his long career in the senate he had almost never bucked the President. He had brought up that way—from the day he and Al Smith had served together in the New York legislature. So he did not argue. He did not question the word of the party bosses. Nor would he make the Willkie nominating speech in view of their veto.

Personally I always doubted that Hannegan et al had ever really reached the President. For there was no step they would not have taken at that time to put across their man.

Thus a great chance to unify the nation failed.

Mental Health Cost Makes Taxpayers Hot

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA)—Charles Schlaifer is a taxpayer. He is also aroused about a cause. And when you get a taxpayer aroused about a cause, you have a force only slightly less powerful than the A-bomb.

What has turned Schlaifer into a crusader is the problem of mental illness, particularly the cost of mental illness to him and his fellow taxpayers.

"Do you realize," Schlaifer crusaded, "that the federal and state governments spend a billion a year on the mentally ill? Do you realize that 97 per cent of all mental patients are in public hospitals? Do you realize that there are upwards of 650,000 people in public mental hospitals — people we must support for maybe 30 years?"

Schlaifer, an advertising executive, is a walking almanac of facts, and figures on his subject. In his efforts to rouse government leaders to the need for action, he's appeared before Congressional committees, always armed with a brainful of the latest, and most startling, statistics.

His interest in mental illness goes back to the days when he was a Hollywood promotion man, assigned to a picture dealing with a mental hospital. His research dredged up facts that shocked him into action. Now he's become one of the leading laymen in the field.

He's a co-founder and co-chairman of the National Mental Health Committee, a group which has as its aim the education of government and industry leaders to the need for research and training in mental illness.

One fact that never fails to amaze him is that, of all illnesses, only diseases of the mind usually make the victim a public charge.

"If I get schizophrenia," he said, mentioning the most widespread mental illness, "you're stuck with me for 30 years or so at $1000 a year. If I get a heart attack, it doesn't cost you a quarter, unless you want to send me flowers."

He's also depressed when he thinks of the money that could be saved taxpayers by the application of known research developments. He quotes experts as saying that, if present knowledge of mental illness were applied, some 75 per cent of mental patients could be sent home.

"But we don't have enough doctors," he says, "or nurses or technicians. And the ones we have aren't sufficiently trained."

That's the training need he cites. The other need is for more research. He says treatment for schizophrenia, which accounts for about half the mental patients, can be developed — if enough money for research and development is forthcoming. Progress in other mental ills is equally possible, in time.

If this double-barreled program — research and training — does not materialize, Schlaifer warns that the problem will get worse. Every year is costing us more and more to maintain mental patients, build more hospitals, and to pay pensions to mentally disturbed war veterans.

Yet he says the Korean War experiences prove that good treatment, administered promptly, can keep prospective mental patients from becoming public charges. In Korea, U. S. Army psychiatrists have been able to return 95 per cent of all battle fatigue cases—men who are mentally disturbed — to the front lines, most within two weeks.

Schlaifer's interest in mental illness is more than strictly a cash one. The humanitarian side has a strong appeal. There is sorrow in his voice as he tells of the states that feed their mentally ill for 11 cents a day, and of the almost complete lack of facilities for treating psychotic children.

"There's been some improvement in mental hospitals," he says, "but not much. As my wife says, 'Now they're clean concentration camps instead of dirty ones.'"

But Schlaifer knows many groups are working on this angle.

SCHLAIFER: Heart attacks are comparatively cheap.

It's the oft-overlooked monetary aspect that gets his taxpayer's dander up.

Malenkov's First Purge Under Way

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA)—The first purge of the Malenkov government is under way in Russia.

It seems so far to be directed at followers and policies of the late Joseph Stalin.

Latest Stalinist to be reported to have "disappeared" is Alexander N. Pokrebyshyev, who was the dictator's personal secretary.

It seems likely that he has been purged, like Semyon D. Ignatiev, the goat in the fantastic "plot of the doctors." Ignatiev, a faithful follower of Stalin, chief of the Ministry of State Security, is charged with concocting false charges against Jewish doctors to inflame "nationalist hostilities."

I wrote immediately following the death of Stalin that we must look to the first purge to give us a clue to the direction Russia would take. Doubtless these are not the last victims of the initial "cleansing" but already certain policy lines are appearing:

1. The followers and policy of Stalin are being treated by the new rulers of Russia with something less than reverence. In fact, there appears almost a pattern to cut Stalin's Father Image down to mortal size.

2. Lavrenti Beria, chief of the secret police, is emerging as a strong man—perhaps the strongest man—in the new setup.

Beria's rise is all the more astonishing when it is realized that he was on the decline when Stalin died. Some close students of Soviet history are already saying that Stalin died just in time to save Beria's skin.

Beria had been marked originally as the goat in the doctors' plot. His police were castigated by Stalin's press for failing to apprehend the doctors who were allegedly plotting to kill Soviet leaders. Recent events even put a question mark on Stalin's death to some observers. Did Stalin die a natural death or did Beria have a hand in his sudden passing?

Fantastic? Not if you know the history of Red Russia. The late Leon Trotsky once charged that Stalin, in his ruthless climb to power, actually poisoned the ailing Lenin. Trotsky was assassinated in Mexico at Stalin's behest.

Beria seems to have put the finger on Ignatiev, who had acquired enormous power in Russia under the guidance of Stalin. Ignatiev was chief of the MGC, Ministry of State Security, which was closely connected with the Red Army. Officially he was Beria's subordinate but actually, with the help of the army and Vyacheslav M. Molotov, he had begun to challenge Beria's power.

Now he stands accused of "political blindness and gullibility," serious offenses in the Soviet lexicon.

And now comes information that Pokrebyshyev has not been seen publicly since Stalin died. He was the only man Stalin trusted completely. He handled Stalin's secret file of compromising data on Soviet prominent.

He worked closely with Molotov and Nikolai Yezhov in planning the great purges of 1935-38. At the Congress of the Russian Communist Party last October he was reelected to the party central committee.

Jacques Pollack, once a high official in the Soviet hierarchy, told me that every detail of Yezhov's purge in the '30's was planned by Stalin personally. After the purge established Stalin firmly, Yezhov was accused of exceeding his authority and shot.

The man who purged Yezhov was Beria.

BATTLE OF THE METERS—As the last un-parking metered outpost among larger cities in Northern Michigan, Escanaba has been the target for parking meter salesmen for several years.

When it became necessary for the City Council to capitulate (for the purpose of increasing revenue and regulating parking) and take steps to purchase about 450 meters the lid was off.

Parking meter salesmen were in town almost before the ink was dry on the newspaper carrying the story. Every meter representative knew all the good points about his own machine, and all the faults in those of his competitors.

To avoid the fuss and muss the Council turned the bids over to the city manager, who called in the city engineer, safety director, and assistant to the city engineer, to make a study. The four men analyzed the bids and the city manager made a report to the Council.

SORROW AND SOLACE—As soon as the manager made his report and it was known which meter was recommended for purchase, the unsuccessful salesmen were hurt to the very bottoms of their pocket-books.

These salesmen, who had already been heard by the bid study group, wanted to be heard again.

There was some outspoken opposition to giving them another hearing and Mayor Robert E. LeMire announced that each would be limited to not more than five minutes in presenting his case.

What they had to say was all to the credit of their own meter, of course, but it apparently satisfied all but one of them. He came to the newspaper office the following day with an offer of additional information, which was rejected.

MEETING THE COUNCIL—At least one of the Councilmen expressed open opposition to hearing the salesmen because, he said, some of them had already visited him at his home.

Now there is nothing wrong in a salesman talking to anyone he wants to, anywhere he wants to, but in Escanaba city government the determination of what business goes where, and who is the low bidder, is made after discussion in open meeting.

If a sales representative has something to say to a Councilman he has the opportunity at Council meetings; and in the case of the parking meters the Councilmen could attend the city manager's bid study sessions and hear each salesman for an hour or more.

Apparently some of the meter salesmen were only following practices established elsewhere in making personal calls on Councilmen. As City Manager A. V. Aronson said in suggesting that the salesmen be heard in open meeting, they are all after the business and it is "tough competition."

THE PRICE RANGE—The meter recommended to the City Council with cost, according to the bid analysis, $62.04. There are three others in that price range, from $59 to $62, and one "cheap" one for $51.87. These are prices of the meters installed and ready to receive coins.

All of the meters are guaranteed for a one-year period and will be removed if they are unsatisfactory, according to the meter representatives.

The city will order about 450 meters and will pay for them with part of the meter revenues during the first two years. The city manager estimates the annual revenue from the meters will total about $16,000.

There should be nothing complicated about purchasing parking meters. The city wants to buy a good meter at a reasonable price, that's all.

The question of whether a parking meter is "manual" or "automatic" is largely academic, for both types have many features in common. The only difference is that in the so-called "manual" type the spring mechanism is wound by the motorist every time he inserts a coin; in the "automatic" type the spring is wound weekly when the city officer removes the coins.

There are both types in all sections of the country, and the weekly stem winders reportedly are working well as far north as Alaska.

A Nebraska man has had the same umbrella for 15 years. Doubtless, the original owner gave up hope long ago.

When Willie Oakes and his wife couldn't agree on what to name a boat they'd planned to buy this summer, Mrs. Will solved the problem by canceling the order for the boat.

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Former Governess to Her Majesty

In the baby's room at Buckingham Palace, Princess Elizabeth looks fondly at her five-week-old son, Prince Charles of Edinburgh. The dark blue eyes are like his mother's.

IV

A cheer rose from the islanders waiting on the quayside when they saw her descend the ladder, followed by Prince Philip, who held her arm to steady her.

As the little boat surged up on the crest of the swell to the quayside, the Princess made ready to jump ashore. But before she could do so the boat was down in the trough of the wave again, with the quayside looming high above.

After two attempts had failed, she tried again.

Philip stood beside her. As the boat rose he signaled to General Browning, and at exactly the right moment gave the Princess a little push, which sent her right into the General's waiting arms.

"Your Royal Highness ought to rest for a while," said the island's doctor who had been waiting with the crowds, knowing she might need his kindly aid.

A Smiling Princess

She shook her head. "Give me two aspirins and a glass of water," she said. "I shall be all right." A few moments later she climbed into the horse-drawn carriage which was to bear her around the island, for there are no motor cars on Sark.

The crowd of islanders cheered. The Princess smiled back at them. They little knew the effort it cost her.

It was only four days after the momentous telephone message to me from Buckingham Palace, announcing the arrival of Princess Elizabeth's baby, that I saw Prince Charles, as he was to be named later.

It was in the afternoon, just as I was getting ready to leave the Palace. As I have explained, I was already living at Nottingham Cottage; my rooms at the Palace had been taken over by Prince Philip so that he could be near his wife at the time of the birth.

But I was still going daily to the Palace to sit with Princess Margaret and discuss whatever subjects came up. The strict school-room routine, such as we had known in the past, had been abandoned.

I knew that my real work as Royal Governess at the Palace was over.

But in the new, busy life which Princess Margaret was leading, her mother thought an hour or two of quiet, unrestrained chat on general subjects might soothe her.

Sister Rowe

On this afternoon I found that she had already gone off to some engagement. I was just putting on my hat and thinking about a small piece of Spode china I had seen that morning in an antique shop off Kensington High Street.

It would go well, I thought, on the low sill of my sitting room. I was already planning its capture when Sister Rowe came into the room.

Sister Rowe is a kindly looking, capable woman who habitually wears the uniform of her profession—white cap, blue cotton dress, and starched apron. I was always particularly impressed by her cuffs, which were starched to the stiffness of steel and sat on her wrists like handcuffs. She had a pleasant, low voice. I could imagine it soothing generations of babies.

"Oh, Miss Crawford, Princess Elizabeth would very much like you to see the baby now," she said.

Daniel presented the group with graduation pins.

Briefs

Mrs. Flora LaFave, Mrs. Emil Norden and Mrs. Agnes Peterson are leaving for Garden tonight to make a weekend retreat at Marygrove Retreat House.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Johnson have purchased the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Brouse of Brampton and will move there in the near future.

"She asked me particularly to find you."

Like all of us at the time, she called the Prince "The Baby." I had a feeling that to Sister Rowe he would always be just that.

Names, I suspect, do not matter much to her. It is His Majesty the Baby with whom she is concerned. To her, every baby is a king. But the thought that she was dealing here with a real and future king must have added zest to her task.

I quickly abandoned thoughts of my Spode and followed her along the corridor. The baby lay in the large, airy room which had been Prince Philip's dressing room. The blinds were drawn, but it was not too dark to see the baby clothes hung round the fireplace—just as they might be in any other nursery.

The cot stood to the right against the wall. It was an impressive affair, shaped like one of those you see in the illustrations to the stories of Hans Christian Andersen. It was slung on a cream enameled metal frame under a sort of hood from which hung a double curtain of elaborately trimmed cream organdie. It was the same cot that Queen Elizabeth had lain in 22 years before.

The room was very still and smelled of soap. Sister Rowe led the way toward the cot, her apron rustling crisply as she moved. It was clear she thought the baby marvelous.

He lay on one cupped hand, sleeping quietly. The other small curled fist, no bigger than a button, it seemed, lay over the coverlet. To me he looked oddly like King George V.

"He's lovely," I said. "We think so," said Sister Rowe. She stressed the "we" in an oddly moving way.

Could that little golden-haired girl I remembered in so many engaging scenes really have grown up to be the mother of this Royal child?

As I stared down into the cot, memories floated before me.

Soon Sister Rowe brought me back to the present. She whispered, a forefinger to her lips.

"We mustn't disturb him," she said.

Together we tiptoed to the door.

When I got home I sat down with George to write the Princess a note to tell her that I had seen the baby.

"He is a lovely child," I wrote. "You must be very proud of him." With the note I enclosed a box of peppermint creams, always the Princess's favorite sweet.

Completion of Span

The next day she sent a note thanking me for the letter. She still found it hard, she said, to believe that the adorable baby was really hers. She had always heard that all mothers felt the same way and was so happy and proud of her new baby son. She was glad, too, to be told from so many quarters that his arrival had given happiness to so many people besides Prince Philip and herself.

Her letter seemed to me to complete fully my years with her. In that time I had watched her grow from childhood to girlhood, become a radiant bride, and now, the fulfillment of every woman, a proud mother.

Princess Elizabeth, before the baby was born, had the same rations as other expectant mothers—seven pints of milk a week from her supplementary ration card, half as much again for her meat ration as the normal book provided, and a bottle of cod-liver oil supplied through the Food Office every six weeks.

Friends would send her orange juice, which was then becoming less scarce, and she was lucky to have a constant supply of eggs from the Home Farm at Windsor.

For the first few months she fed the baby herself. She was anxious to give him as good a foundation for health as possible, knowing this to be of great importance.

Bridal Rites For Joyce Ann Vogel, Richard J. Gabourie

Richard James Gabourie claims Miss Joyce Marie Vogel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Vogel of 208 N. 11th St., as his bride in a double ring ceremony today at St. Joseph's Church in Escanaba. Father Stephen Schneider, O. F. M. was celebrant of the 9 a. m. nuptial high mass.

The bride who was escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father who gave her in marriage was gown in white tulle and nylon tulle. A deep bertha of lace outlined the yoke of nylon net with its tiny round lace collar. The bouffant skirt, gathered to the snug-fitting bodice was distinguished by a panel of accordion pleats in front, edged with wide Venetian lace which extended entirely around the chapel length train. Completing her attire was a Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls which held her fingertip veil of nylon net, and fitted gloves of nylon tulle, made with points of lace extending over the hand.

She carried a crystal rosary, the gift of the bridegroom, and a cascade bouquet of white carnations and deep blue sweetpeas with white satin shower ribbons.

Yellow and Aqua

Yellow nylon tulle over taffeta was worn by Mrs. Robert Seidl, matron of honor. The dress had a snug-fitting bodice of pleated tulle with a matching bolero and a bouffant skirt with a bustle back. Her gloves were white eyelet fabric. She carried a colonial bouquet of white snapdragons and blue sweetpeas with iris.

The bridesmaids, Miss Margaret A. Rodgers who came from Tulsa, Okla., for the wedding and Mrs. Lester Ness Jr. of Escanaba, wore identical gowns of aqua tulle over taffeta with eyelet fabric gloves and they carried colonial bouquets of yellow snapdragons and yellow roses.

Mr. Gabourie, who is a son of Robert J. Gabourie of 1122 1st Ave. S., was attended by Robert Seidl, as best man, and Charles E. Olsen and Wallace Larsson as groomsmen. The guests were seated by Dick Dufresne and Robert Holmes.

Mrs. Vogel wore a blue and white two piece suit dress of linen with blue accessories and a pink rose corsage for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Elias Larsson, the bridegroom's aunt, wore blue crepe with natural accessories and a like corsage.

Music of Service

Palms were effectively placed in the sanctuary of the church for the wedding service and two bouquets of yellow snapdragons, gladioli and iris were on the altar. St. Joseph's Choir sang the music of the mass. Just before the marriage service Arcadelt's "Ave Maria" was sung by Frank Hirm. The offertory hymn was "Pans Angelicus," sung by Miss Doris Costley and the chorus. At the close of the mass Mrs. Ray Olson sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" as the bride placed a bouquet of white carnations and snapdragons tied with blue ribbons on the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The wedding dinner for 50 relatives and friends was served at 12 noon at the Dells Supper Club. The reception from 3 to 5:30 this afternoon for 200 guests is being held at the Vogel family home. Spring flowers in attractive arrangements graced the table for the dinner and are being used throughout the home for the reception.

Mrs. John Vogel is presiding at the silver service, assisted by Mrs. Francis Corbett. Miss Joan Corbett is in charge of the punch bowl and the four-tiered wedding cake is being served by Mrs. Palmer Derouin.

Will Live in Tulsa

The couple will live in Tulsa, Okla., after a honeymoon in Lower Michigan. The bride who was graduated from St. Joseph's High School in 1948 presently is employed by the Shell Oil Company in Tulsa. Mr. Gabourie, a graduate of Escanaba High School, Cleveland Commercial College and Spartan School of Aeronautical Engineering at Tulsa, is with the Douglas Aircraft Co. in Tulsa.

Wedding guests included Miss Margaret Rodgers of Tulsa, Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Fillion, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fillion and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fillion of Sheboygan, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gabourie of Marquette, Mrs. John Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. H. ## Barbara Kleiman Is The Bride Of Gerald L. Nelson

Traditional white satin was worn by Miss Barbara R. Kleiman of 430 S. 12th St., Escanaba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kleiman Sr. of Wilson, for her marriage this morning to Gerald L. Nelson of Flat Rock. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nelson are the bridegroom's parents.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 10 at St. Francis Xavier Church in Spalding by the Rev. Walter Franek before an altar decorated with snapdragons, carnations and gladioli. The Senior Choir sang the music of the wedding mass, "Ave Maria" was the offertory hymn and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" was sung as the bride placed a bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Mother.

The bride's gown was made with a fine net yoke with lace trim, long sleeves tapering to a point over the wrist, and a full skirt with a court train. Her veil of net and lace was caught to a crown of seed pearls. As her jewelry she wore a three-strand pearl necklace with matching earrings. She carried a cascade of red roses and white carnations with shower ribbons of white satin.

In Identical Gowns

Lace bodices and bouffant skirts of net over taffeta were worn by the young women attending her. The gowns were detailed with Peter Pan collars and cap sleeves. Mrs. Alex Jorasz, the bride's only sister, who was matron of honor, was in white. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Joseph Kleiman, a sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Francis Pilon and Mrs. William Gardner, sisters of the bridegroom, wore pastel pink, blue and lilac. Their net hats matched the gowns. They carried colonial bouquets of roses and snapdragons in contrasting colors.

June and Janice Nelson, four-year-old twin sisters of the bridegroom, were flower girls. Their floor length frocks of chartreuse taffeta had wide berthas and narrow sashes. Poke bonnets and white net gloves completed their costumes. They carried colonial bouquets of snapdragons and carnations.

Indian Lake Golf Course Once Was Garden Area For Indians

THE INDIAN LAKE Golf Course at Manistique was once an Indian garden area, according to historians. The golf course is pictured as it appears today. (Linderoth Photo)

By WILLIAM L. NORTON
MANISTIQUE — The nine-hole Indian Lake golf course, currently being readied for the 1953 playing season, was once an Indian garden area, according to field notes made by Algerman Merryweather, deputy surveyor, under date of Aug. 21, 1850.

Merryweather in his notes described the general area as follows:

"The southeast quarter of this township presents a tract of table land some 70 feet above the level of the lake, of beach sugar maple timber; a band of Indians have their village on this tract at the outlet of the lake on the northeast quarter of section 34, containing a dozen or more log cabins neatly erected of hewn timber with one of the large sized used for a church by the Roman Catholic Mission."

Merryweather's field notes also refer to the lake as Manistique and reveal that a "sugar bush" was located just west of the present Maple Grove school, and a short distance northwest of the sugar bush the Indians had a lime kiln.

Old Indian Trail
The notes also disclose several instances where section lines intersected an Indian trail to Manistique River. The trail appears on the plat book as starting at the present home of Ian McKilligan and proceeding north and east through the Beckman farm, the Fox Farm on M-94 and then going southeasterly to the river. The trail followed ridges.

Section lines also are recorded as intersecting an Indian clearing extending about 2,000 feet along the shore of the lake in section 27. Site of the clearing corresponds exactly with the present location of the golf course, according to Russell Watson, Manistique timber operator.

Collected Arrowheads
Charles Hovey, now deceased, collected numerous arrowheads from the golf course site and displayed them in a small museum he maintained in connection with his resort development at Indian Lake.

The golf course soil, being light but fertile, was exactly right for the Indians to cultivate with their crude garden tools, Watson reported.

An abstract of title to the golf course property reveals that it was involved only in a few ownership transfers, beginning with assignment of title by the United States to Bone Genoshee and Antone Ossawinimakee in 1869.

In 1890 the property was transferred by Semo Ossawinimakee and his wife, Mary; Enos and Catherine Ossawinimakee, and others who signed as Ossawinimakee, to the Chicago Lumbering Company. Others involved in the same year in a title transfer to the lumbering firm were Bone Kenosha and his wife, Catherine, and Catherine and Peter Kenosha.

Used As Horse Pasture
The Chicago Lumbering Company used the golf course field as a pasture for their horses. W. S. Crowe, of Manistique, who has written extensively of early logging days in the Manistique area, reported that from 200 to 300 horses were pastured in the field during the summer. A barn was located on a rise of ground on the present third fairway.

The golf course area in 1928 was deeded to Bantshaf and Herbert who developed the present golf field. Later Bantshaf disposed of his interest to E. T. Lundstrom, of Manistique. The Indian Lake Country Club Inc., acquired the property on a land contract from Lundstrom and J. Joseph Herbert March 29, 1948.

The course is considered one of the most beautiful in the Upper Peninsula. A $40,000 clubhouse was built at the site two years ago, with most of the labor and material being donated by members.

QUESTION: What baseball team do you root for and why, and what do you think of their chances this season?

Bill LeMire, student, 318 Lake Shore Drive: "I've got two teams, Chicago White Sox and Chicago Cubs — both Chicago teams. I've been rooting for the Cubs for a long time, but my dad roots for the White Sox and we go down to see a couple of their games, so I'm rooting for both. I'm uncertain about the Cubs — they'll probably wind up in the second division again — but the Sox I hope will come through."

Elaine Snow, telephone company worker and student, 492 S. Seventh St.: "Everybody else in our family roots for Detroit, so I guess I do too. I hope they're better than they were last year, anyway. We're going to see a game at Milwaukee sometime next month."

Carl F. L. Johnson, C&NW brakeman, 204 N. Tenth St.: "I don't know a heck of a lot about baseball but I sure am for the Milwaukee Braves. Detroit — No! I still think we should belong to Wisconsin. That's my sentiments and they've been that for a long time. I think that we should be for the Milwaukee Braves. That's in our territory."

Aileen Gaffney, secretary, 905 First Ave. S.: "I root for the Tigers because they're a Michigan team but I don't think they're going to do very well. I think I'll switch my loyalty to the Braves. Milwaukee is really giving them so much support — they really stood on their heads for them when they came into town. It's almost like the Brooklyn Dodgers."

Bob Krause, student, 1208 S. 15th St.: "Tigers. I lived in Ypsilanti which is quite near Detroit and so they were almost just like home town team. I don't think they're going to do any good this year or possibly next year but they've got a bunch of young guys. I think in about '55 or '56 they'll pull out of it."

Delta's Home Demonstration Clubs Give Expert Training To Women

The spotlight is on Miss Ingrid Tervonen, county home demonstration agent, this week. Home demonstration groups throughout Delta County are winding up their celebration of National Home Demonstration Week. The theme is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World."

Miss Tervonen's work takes her into every corner of the county. She puts about 15,000 miles a year on her automobile, most of it in connection with her job.

Miss Tervonen is advisor to about 500 Delta County women who have banded into 40 groups.

"I think some people have an idea that these clubs are just rural, but they're not," Miss Tervonen said. "They're about half and half, I'd say, throughout the state." Escanaba has seven groups, she said, and Gladstone eight.

Planned By Specialists

Groups study in five major fields: foods and nutrition, clothing, home furnishings, parent education and child development, and home management. Foods and nutrition is the most popular course, Miss Tervonen said. All home demonstration lessons are planned by specialists at Michigan State College.

The home demonstration agent said the program gives women in a neighborhood an opportunity to meet together, to exchange ideas and information.

"The women who belong are those interested in new ways of doing things," she declared. "They're interested in getting ahead."

Groups Decide Lessons

No two counties have the same lessons in any one year, according to Miss Tervonen, because homemakers in each county decide themselves what lessons they would like at program-planning meetings each April and May. Miss Tervonen said each group is now voting on next season's program.

During the past year county groups have had the following lessons: modern methods of clothing care, which included care of the newer fibres such as arlon and dacron; cleaning with the greatest of ease; feeding grown-ups; slipcovering; and cotton dress-making.

A lesson on how to freeze foods is scheduled for May 14. A lesson on bread baking and one on selection of floor coverings have been penciled in for September, Miss Tervonen said.

Mrs. William Olson of the Bay View group gave a special craft lesson this year on textile painting, a lesson Miss Tervonen said many women asked for.

Groups Vary In Size

Groups have ranged as small as six members. Present smallest is eight members, and there are several groups this size, Miss Tervonen said. Bark River and Rapid River have the largest groups with membership in the twenties. Isabella, organized April 15, is the newest group, the agent said.

Most groups meet once a month, September through May, Miss Tervonen said. Group meetings are held in afternoon or evening, depending entirely on the group's wishes.

Each group elects its own leaders, and leader training meetings are held once a month. Each group sends two leaders to the meetings, to learn new methods and new ideas direct from a specialist from Michigan State College or from Miss Tervonen. Leaders then communicate this information to their group members, Miss Tervonen explained.

Groups also elect representatives to a Homemakers Council which plans special county events, Miss Tervonen said. The county is divided into districts and each district elects one new member to the council each year. Members are elected for two years, so there is always one old and one new member from each district on the council.

Members Of Council

Members this year are: Mrs. George Walker, Escanaba, chairman; Mrs. Al Rousseau, Gladstone, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Edwin Bergman, Bark River; Mrs. Anna Harrod, Escanaba; Mrs. Clifford Olson, Bark River; Mrs. Ray Rose, Gladstone; Mrs. Nels Koski, Rock; Mrs. E. A. Christie, Gladstone; Mrs. Carl Sundling, Gladstone; and Mrs. William Bradway, Cornell.

Delta County only recently acquired its home demonstration agent. In 1917 there was an agent here about one month, Miss Tervonen said, but this mysterious personage, who vanished without trace, was Miss Tervonen's only predecessor.

Miss Tervonen herself arrived here as home demonstration agent in August 1949, and most home demonstration groups in Delta County have been organized since then. When she came there were 12 clubs and most of these were fairly recent. Specialists from Marquette came down about four times a year to teach these step-child groups.

Miss Tervonen worked in the Soo two years as home demonstration agent before she came here. Prior to that she had worked in Escanaba in the Farmer's Home Administration. Having worked here once, she wanted to get back, she said.

One reason she likes Delta better than Chippewa County is that she drives less here. There she said, distances were tremendous. The Soo is in one corner of the county, but here Escanaba is central. Here, said Miss Tervonen, her longest trip is to Garden, about 50 miles.

In summer there is less home demonstration activity, but since part of the busy agent's program is teaching 4-H girls she keeps active even during the hot season.

Koreans Want Unity

SEOUL (AP)—A member of the South Korean National Assembly said all patriotic groups in Korea have joined to rally the "whole nation against any armistice without Korean unification."

Assemblyman Y. H. Chung said 19 organizations including political parties and North Korean refugee federations, have formed the "committee for the Campaign to March North Into Unification."

Ingrid Tervonen, Delta County home demonstration agent, last year was advisor to about 500 Delta County women who have organized 40 home demonstration groups. Miss Tervonen keeps herself up to date on latest homemaking practices by study and by constantly experimenting with new ways of doing things.

Mrs. George Walker and Mrs. Louis Carr, of Escanaba, are pictured slipcovering a chair. Slipcovering classes are held whenever there are sufficient requests in an area.

Fruit City Was Dream That Became Nightmare

MANISTIQUE—Few residents of Manistique under 50 remember the dream town of Fruit City which was planned but never built in Inwood township, back in 1913 and 1914.

Older residents, however, may recall that the dream city became a nightmare to many gullible persons who invested in lots there — only to awaken to the realization that they owned relatively worthless chunks of pine plains.

A plot of the proposed community, developed by John L. and Louise Stephens, of Minneapolis, is on file at the office of the Schoolcraft County Clerk.

On Soo Line
The drawing with accompanying notes reveal that the townsite was laid out north of the Soo Line tracks almost two miles west of present M-149. The area is described as the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter and the southwest quarter of section 24, town 41 north, range 17 west. This is on an area of plains in Inwood township near the Thompson township boundary.

Blandishments used by the Minneapolis promoters in selling lots included lurid descriptions of the fruit growing possibilities of the adjacent area, it is reported.

Those who remember the scheme says sites for a bank, store, school, newspaper and various homes were staked out. The plat at the Court House shows that five streets were planned—Main, which was 100 feet wide; First Ave., Plum Ave., Cherry St., and Second Ave.

Land Cleared
Pine stumps were removed from the proposed townsite to lend an atmosphere of reality to the scheme but no building was ever erected.

The Inwood township board approved the plat on Oct. 25, 1913. The signature of O. J. Leveille, clerk, appears on the plat in certification of the board's approval.

The Board of Supervisors gave its approval to the plan on April 24, 1914, with the names of C. W. Baggett, chairman, and John N. Forshar, county clerk, being signed in certification.

Like dozens of investors, both in this area and in Minneapolis and St. Paul, the two boards also were "taken in" by the promotion.

Louisa May Alcott, author of "Little Women," used to write 14 hours steadily without stopping even to eat until her daily stint was done.

Native Wildflowers Threatened By Destructive Flower Pickers

ONE OF THE EARLIEST FLOWERS to bloom in Michigan woodlands is the hepatica, pictured above. Unprotected by law, the hepatica or May flower, survives because the blossoms are on separate stems and the plant is little disturbed when the flower is picked. (Photo by Harry J. Gruber)

Wildflowers are blooming in Northern Michigan woodlands, brightening the scene after the long winter, and providing opportunity for wildflower pickers to violate one of the state's most violated laws.

Michigan's native wildflowers are as wide in variety as they are in color and shape, ranging from the small but highly fragrant blossoms of the arbutus to the large and odorless flowers of the trillium.

Among the flowers now in bloom are the arbutus, which is often found for sale along Northern Michigan roadsides, the hepatica, bloodroot, violet, Dutchman's breeches and the dog-tooth violet.

On Banned List

The motorists who stop their cars along roadsides to purchase bunches of arbutus from children are encouraging the breaking of a state law, whether they know it or not.

For state law prohibits the picking of the following native flowers and shrubs:

Arbutus, birds foot violet, bitersweet, club mosses, flowering dogwood, Michigan holly, North American lotus, pipsissewa, all native orchids, trilliums and gentians. All of flowers and plants named

City Folks Make The Best Square Dancers

BOXBORO, Mass. (AP)—It's very strange, but it seems city folks make the best square dancers," says Bob Treize, square dance caller and farmer. He should know. He has called for dance groups on the American east coast from 10 up to 3,000. He says it's a wholesome sign "When you see whole families coming to square dances together."

He thinks the group fun of square dancing, now producing greater enthusiasm in cities than in the country, is an answer to shyness, awkwardness and juvenile delinquency. And it doesn't cost much. Just a few records and a good caller.

A curious thing happened when Treize conducted a sort of United Nations square dance for students from many different parts of the world.

"The men and women, all from far-off countries, danced together as though they had done it all the time," Treize says.

above are considered sufficiently rare in Michigan, or so threatened by extinction, that they receive the protection of the law. Yet their picking goes merrily on. It is one of the state's most violated laws.

Market Pickers

Wildflower associations, seeking to protect the native flowering plants from extinction, encourage people to look and enjoy rather than pick and destroy.

Greatest threat to the arbutus are the "market pickers" — the persons who each spring harvest great bunches of the rare flowers for sale. The delicate plants are torn from their root beds. Naturalists predict the arbutus will soon disappear entirely in Michigan except in isolated areas.

Other flowers are not so easily harmed by picking, for the plant and the roots are not disturbed when the flower is taken.

But the trillium or wild lily, found growing in hardwood lands, is usually destroyed when the flower is picked. For the picker takes not only the flower but the single stalk and its three leaves as well. The plant is destroyed and the bulb of the lily dies for lack of nourishment.

Howard Sullivan, Skating Star, Visits Parents Here

Howard Sullivan, Escanaba ice skater who made a big name for himself professionally was recently discharged from the army, and is now visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Sullivan, 809 S. 18th St., accompanied by his wife, a former Ice Cycle member.

Howard spent two years in the service of the army, and of these two years he spent a year and a half in Garmisch, Germany in the entertainment branch of the Garmisch Military Post.

While in Germany, Sullivan worked off duty at the club "Casa Carioca," which was built and run by the army, entertaining the G. I.'s. The club which has a capacity of 700 seats completely changes its show every four months. The cast of 30 members, 20 girls and 10 men, is international, some of the members coming from Germany, France, England, Switzerland, Holland, and other European countries. There are several Americans connected with the show, but Howard was the only G. I. He helped entertain Allied soldiers every night of the week.

"Entertaining at the club, I met about 10 servicemen from Escanaba. I was very delighted to see someone from home. Also my wife joined me in Europe for six months which helped my morale considerably," Howard said.

Howard, while off duty, spent a week in Paris with Jon Flanagan, another Escanaba skater who became a professional, and his wife. Flanagan was then skating at Club Lido in Paris, and he is currently appearing at the Roxy Theater in New York.

Sullivan joined the Ice Capades when 15, to become the youngest member of the troupe, and he skated with their show for a year and a half. He was then selected to take a leading comedy role in the "Ice Cycles," which is sponsored jointly by the Ice Capades and Ice Follies. Howard skated with the Cycles over four years before being inducted into the army. The troupe played in cities all over the United States and also appeared in London and Paris.

"I definitely plan on continuing in the ice skating profession. The life, traveling, fun and excitement of show business is for me. At the present time, I'm just on vacation," Sullivan stated.

When the Sullivans leave Escanaba, they will visit a few weeks at the home of Mrs. Sullivan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Field, at Oakland, Calif. At the end of their vacation, Howard will decide on definite plans for the future.

Uniform Divorce Law Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—A divorce legal in one state would be legal in the other 47 under a bill passed by the Senate yesterday and sent to the House.

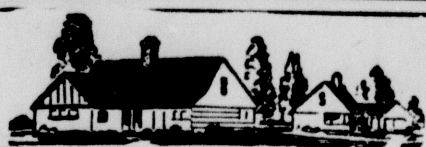

The Senate Judiciary Committee said that since some states refuse to recognize divorces granted in others, as many as four million persons face possible prosecution and harassment.

The bill was sponsored by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), whose state has relatively liberal divorce laws.

the suburbs or country, barn red would be excellent for the shingles with a trim of white on the blinds and doors.

Overall length of "The Apple," including the attached one-car garage, is 60 feet. Cubage of the house is 13,600 feet; cubage of the wing is 8,000 feet. You'll need at least an 80-foot lot if you plan to build "The Apple."

People, who like an informal style home such as "The Apple," also usually like to spend time outdoors and to entertain outside whenever possible during the warmer weather. The yard in back of the wing can easily be converted into a very pleasant outdoor living area; include a fireplace so that you and your guests can have the fun of cooking your food outdoors.

Closet space is very carefully planned in "The Apple." Two storage walls contain six closets—while there also is a large coat closet in the entry hall, a good sized broom closet in the kitchen and a spacious closet in the further end of the left living room wall.

Although there is no regular dining room in "The Apple," the unusually large living room (it measures 19' x 13'4") can easily serve two purposes. The further end of the living room makes the ideal location for your dining room equipment; not only is this area nearest to the kitchen but it's also well lighted and ventilated by the picture window and the two casement windows flanking it.

Of course, you can use the breakfast nook, opening off the front of the kitchen for most of your family's meals. The laundry-utility room is very well lighted by three windows; it contains doors leading to both the front and back yards. Stairs to the basement lead down from the utility room.

Both bedrooms in "The Apple" are located at the right end of the house. These rooms are of good size and reap the benefits of cross ventilation.

Place the heating plant under the living room in the basement of "The Apple." The remaining basement can be used for storage or be converted into a playroom.

Library Gets New Volumes

The Manistique public library has purchased several new books that will afford adults, juveniles and intermediates hours of entertainment, information and adventure. The new selections which are now ready for circulation include:

God Loves You, by Catherine Marshall, which is a beautiful little book of stories and prayers—warm simple talks with God and humorous stories Dr. Marshall used to illustrate some of his famous children's sermons.

The Tree On the Road To Turntown, written by Glenn O. Blough, a specialist in elementary science, is a book which is nature fiction without nature faking. In an indirect way, it teaches a great deal about the changing seasons, conservation, the balance of nature, the life of a tree, and the ways of animals.

Bobby's Happy Day, by Ait Evers, captures the perfect happiness of one summer day in the life of a small boy.

Charlotte's Web, by E. B. White, with pictures by Garth Williams, is the story of a little girl named Fern who loved a little pig, Wilbur—and of Wilbur's dear friend Charlotte A. Cavatica, a beautiful large grey spider. The book has 47 black and white drawings that have all the detail and warm-hearted appeal which children love.

Billy Goes Exploring has a factual text by Dorothy Sterling and striking photographs by Myron Ehrenberg, which enable readers to enjoy a safari with Explorer Billy.

Bar-Face, by Tom Person, is a southern story about a baby racoon whose mother had been killed by a dog turned wild. He makes a fascinating hero, his life complicated by illegal hunters and enemy farm dogs. His story has mounting suspense, wonderful nature detail and the thrill of reality all through it.

Sink the Basket, by Sally Knapp, is an exciting story of girls' basketball—and it is the story of one girl's problem in human relationships. It tells how, in helping others, she brought a new meaning to her own life.

Ride West Into Danger, by Billy Warren, goes back to the days when the plains were covered with buffalo instead of longhorns, and with wild Indians instead of cowboys. In text and illustrations, this story paints an unforgettable picture of one of the most exciting periods in the ever-thrilling story of the great American West.

Always the Young Strangers, by Carl Sandburg, is another contribution to Americana by one who holds a position in the American scene that is unmatched and whose life spans the years from Lincoln's America to the matched and whose life spans the years from Lincoln's America to the present. This book will be many things to many people. To many an older reader it will be a nostalgic reminder of his own smalltown beginnings. To the young reader it will be a revelation of the vast changes in the American way of life in less than a lifetime. To the future historian it will be an invaluable picture of a scene that has vanished.

The Houses In Between, by Howard Spring, is the story of an extraordinary woman—a brilliant panorama of life in England and Europe.

Steamboat Gothic, by Frances Parkinson Keyes, is a superb love story of the great Louisiana plantations, of the river, and the loves and lives of the men and women who pooled them.

East of Eden, by John Steinbeck, is essentially the story of one family, the Trasks—a father and his two sons and their errant mother. What happens to the Trasks, against the background of what is happening to others, gives the book its storytelling drive and also its human significance.

The Silent Reefs, by Dorothy Cottrell, is a novel that captures the mystery, the strange, aloof fascination of a tropical land and its people.

War Bonnet, by Clay Fisher, is a broad-canvas novel of pioneer courage and hostile savagery played against the background of Southern Wyoming territory.

Bright Serpent, by James M. Fox; Just Killing Time, by Richard Ellington; Every Bet's A Sure Thing, by Thomas B. Dewey; Widow's Mite, by E. Holding; and The Case of the Hesitant Hostess, by Erle G. Gardner, are among new outstanding mysteries.

Cancer Drive Here Extended

Extension of the cancer fund campaign another two weeks in an effort to reach a total of $1,200 to $1,500 in collections was announced yesterday by Carl L. Carlson, county campaign director.

Response to the fund appeal so far has been good, Carlson said, but more funds are needed to meet local requirements and to contribute an adequate amount to the national organization.

Half of the money raised is retained by the Schoolcraft County Chapter of the American Cancer Society; the other half is sent to national headquarters to help finance work in research and education.

A total of $450 from the local share is contributed annually to the cancer cytology laboratory in Menominee which makes possible early diagnosis of cancer.

Carlson said that the "lights on" campaign recently was a complete success, with between $600 and $700 being collected in an hour's time. Over 70 solicitors participated in the house-to-house drive.

Still to be completed is solicitation among industries and businesses.

When all reports are in from townships and local solicitors and the donations in containers counted, Carlson said, "we expect to have a minimum of $1,200."

Trenary, Cooks Deadlock For Central Track Crown

Trenary's Richard Rukkila scaled 10 feet, 3 inches over the pole vault bar in the final event of the meet yesterday to give the Trenary track and field squad a tie for first place with Cooks in the Central League track meet. Both squads scored 44 points.

Rukkila and two Eben vaulters, Gerry Mattson and Ken Poso, were tied for first in the pole vault—all aiming at 10 feet, 2 inches—when the call was made for the half-mile relay event.

Anchors Relay Team
The Cooks relay team breezed in first and Rukkila anchored the Trenary team to third place behind Nahma. At that point Cooks led in the team standings but Rukkila went back to the pole vault pit and was the only vaulter to clear the bar. He added another inch before calling it a day.

Star of the meet, which had a record field of 120 entries from six Central League schools, was Everett Groll of Cooks. Groll sped to a first in the 100-yard dash, won the high jump, anchored the winning 880 relay team and placed second in the 180 low hurdles for a full afternoon's work.

Rukkila posted a first in the second section of the 440-yard dash, tied for third in the high jump and anchored the relay team for Trenary in addition to his winning vault.

Fast Mile Time
Nahma's Ronald Groleau turned in a fast 4:59.5 mile to lead the young Arrows to 21.5 points. Groleau breezed home alone in the mile event. It was his first competition run at the distance.

Another individual star in the meet was Gerry Sturvist of Eben who skipped over the low hurdles in 23 seconds flat. His time was only six tenths of a second off the Upper Peninsula Class D-E record of 22.4 set by Harold Kallio of Eben in 1950.

Carl Seefeld of Trenary turned in a creditable broad jump of 18 feet, 8 inches. And Groll's high jump of 5 feet, 4 1/2 inches was a meet highlight.

Summary:
120 high hurdles — Ken Poso, Eben; Morris Nance, Trenary; Gerry Johnson, Eben, 19.1

100 yard dash — Everett Groll, Cooks; Tauno Peltto, Rock; Duane Popour, Nahma, 11.4

440 yard dash — Ronald Groleau, Nahma; Francis Ansell, Cooks; Don Johnson, Trenary, 4:59.5

180 low hurdles — Gerry Sturvist, Eben; Everett Groll, Cooks; Morris Nance, Trenary, 23.0

880 yard run — Henry Peterson, Cooks; Edwin Jalonen, Eben; Waino Kallio, Trenary, 2:17.2

Pole vault — Richard Rukkila, Trenary; Gerry Mattson and Ken Poso, Eben, tied for second; Peter Wolf, Rapid River, and Gerry Sturvist, Eben, tied for fourth, 10 feet, 3 inches

Shot put — Dick Shepard, Bark River; Burton Peterson, Cooks; Kenneth Segerstrom, Cooks, 38 feet, 9 inches

880 relay — Cooks, Nahma, Trenary, 1:47.7

Team scoring: Trenary and Cooks, 44; Eben, 40; Nahma, 21.5; Rock, 14; Bark River, 10; Rapid River, 9.5.

DASH FINISH — Jim Greenwood, Bark River speedster, breezes home first in a heat of the 220 yard dash event in yesterday's Central League track and field meet. Greenwood failed to place in the 220 yard finals won by Tauno Peltto of Roch in 25.7 seconds. # Gray Fails In Bid For First Tiger Hill Win

CHICAGO (P)—Lefty Ted Gray, counted as one of the Big Three of the Detroit Tigers in pre-season speculation, proved a pitching bust for the third time in a row in Chicago last night. The White Sox beat him easily, 7-2.

As a matter of fact, Gray lasted only 2 1-3 innings before his own wildness, under pressure, drove him to the showers.

As spring training started Manager Fred Hutchinson named Gray, Art Houtteman and Ned Garver as his "Big 3." Only Garver has managed a single victory thus far. The other pitchers, including Houtteman and ex-clubbing Billy Hoelt and Dave Madison, have been busts.

Four Earned Runs

Gray walked four, gave up four hits and allowed four runs, all of them earned, in his brief stint in the opener of a four-game series with the White Sox.

Joe Dobson, a 36-year-old graybeard, was Chicago's winning pitcher. He went all the way and allowed only five Tiger hits in winning his third, against two defeats.

Only bright spot for the Tigers was Walt Drope's two-run homer—a blow long overdue. It was his second of the year and didn't get the "dangerous" power-hitter above the 250 mark. It was his only blow of the night in four trips.

Drope's homer came behind Bob Nieman's double with two out in the fourth.

Sox Big Guns

Vern Stephens—picked up from the Boston Red Sox, as was Drope—slashed out three hits, including a double into the White Sox bullpen, and shortstop Chico Carrasquel drove in four runs to pace Chicago to its third win in four games this season with the Tigers.

The Tigers, incidentally, have won only five while dropping 17. Doubles by Stephens and Carrasquel and Dobson's single produced two runs at Gray's expense in the second. Then Minny Minoso bunted safely to open the third, Sam Mele walked and both advanced on Jim Rivera's sacrifice. Gray passed Stephens intentionally, and then Gray hit Sherm Lollar to force home a run. Gray then lost either his control or his nerve to force home another run by walking Carrasquel.

Dick Marlowe finally ended the rally, but he last only through the sixth. A wild pitch between singles by Stephens and Carrasquel netted the fifth Sox tally in

Snead, Hogan Lead Golf Field

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (P)—Sam Snead and Ben Hogan lock-stepped at the point of the Greenbrier Open golf parade going past the halfway point today.

The two favorites for the $2,000 first prize were a stroke apart with defending champion Snead holding the edge. Snead had the same 67 score on the first two 18-hole rounds over the par 70 course. There are another 36 holes to go today and Sunday.

Hogan dropped a stroke back from his first round 67. Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., who also had an opening 67 was two strokes higher the second time round to slide into a third place tie with Lou Barbaro of Deal, N. J.

Shelley Mayfield, the first round leader on Thursday with a 66, knocked himself out of virtual contention with a subsequent 76 Friday.

In This Corner With Ray Crandall

One of our readers queried us the other p. m.: "When are you going to make your prediction on the Marciano-Walcott fight? Or have you given the whole thing up as a bad deal?" We didn't miss the implication, of course, that our record for picking fight winners is somewhat tarnished. In fact, a bystander was so blunt as to suggest that we hadn't picked a fight right in two years.

Well, we're on record as saying that Marciano is a bum. We picked Walcott to teach him a few of the fundamentals of boxing when the pair met for the heavy weight championship. As everyone knows now, Marciano tagged Walcott on the button to win the big prize in the 13th round after trailing by quite a wide margin in points.

We've seen Marciano in action on television. We still have a vivid picture of the Brockton, Mass., slugger flailing away almost amateurishly against a fat, washed-up Lee Savold. But even more vivid is the picture of the crushing power of the right cross that nearly killed old Jersey Joe some months back. That rocking right hand, which followed closely a stunning left hook, seems to us to be the key to the big match coming up next Friday night.

Walcott is unique among present day heavyweights. He's undoubtedly the oldest campaigner in the top ranks of fighters. The great Camden, N. J., father is a physical marvel. They say his footwork is lightning fast, his reflexes sharp and his punches are as authoritative as ever. But what good is all that if you get your skull caved in by a sledge-hammer right hand?

We see Marciano in a repeat performance next week. Old man Walcott may shuffle and dance and we haven't the slightest doubt that he can outmaneuver the slow-footed Marciano. But Rocky packs the guns and it seems just a matter of time before he triggers a right hand that will cause Walcott to join the host of ex-heavyweight champions who have tried without success to regain the crown.

Trojans Play Home Doubleheader Sunday

The St. Joe Trojan baseball team closes out a heavy weekend schedule with a pair of home games here Sunday afternoon.

Coach Tom St. Germain's baseball nine will entertain Nahma's Arrows in the opener at 1 and will take on the Baraga Parochial team in the nightcap scheduled to start at 3. St. Joe travels to Stephenson this afternoon, entering the game with the Eagles with a record of two wins in three starts.

Manistique Cards Will Practice At 2 Sunday

MANISTIQUE—The Manistique Cardinals, getting set for opening of the Bay de Noc League season Sunday, May 17, at Garden, will hold their third practice session at 2 Sunday afternoon at the fairgrounds, it is announced.

Candidates for the team practiced last Sunday afternoon and again Friday night.

Several players from last year's team are out again, including Dick Makinen, Homer Weber, Marvin Frederickson, Fred Lesica, Thomas Adams, Don Carlson and Bob McNamara. New players reporting are Rudy Brandstrom, Douglas Harding and Jack Phillips.

Lyle Demars, who is now hospitalized, is expected to be back in the lineup when his physical condition is improved sufficiently.

The Cardinals will play their three opening games away from home and will not use the new

Sauer Not Sorry That Mathews Used His Bat

MILWAUKEE (P)—Hank Sauer isn't at all sorry he gave one of his bats to Eddie Mathews a few weeks back.

As a matter of fact, the big Chicago Cubs' outfielder didn't even know the bat was for Mathews when he handed it to Ebba St. Claire, Milwaukee Braves reserve catcher, down at Wrigley Field.

"I didn't find it out until after the kid had slammed those two home runs down there," Sauer said Friday night as he sat in the Cubs' dugout at the County Stadium. "I said something to him about the hits and he thanked me for the bat."

"Was that my bat?" Sauer said he asked the slugger's third baseman.

"He said it was so I told him to give it right back."

"I was only kidding, of course," Sauer added. "Lots of players ask me for a bat and I'll always give one away."

"You know," he continued, "most of them can't use my bats very long. Too heavy."

Sauer's bats are the biggest in the National League—38 ounces,

Wolverines Post 9-1 Edge Over Spartans

EAST LANSING (P)—Michigan and Michigan State had their eyes cast in different directions in the Big Ten baseball race as the intrastate rivals squared off for a double-header here today.

Michigan, which gained a 5-2 second-place tie with a 9-1 victory over MSC at Ann Arbor yesterday, is looking toward the top.

The Wolverines easily could make it with a double victory today, if tough Illinois (also 5-2) and undefeated Wisconsin (3-0) split their twin bill and Northwestern (2-1) and Ohio State (also 5-2) did the same.

Michigan State is looking toward the bottom. A double setback tacked on to its current 2-5 conference record could kick MSC down to within a step of the basement. On the other hand, an MSC triumph in both games here would give the Spartans a respectable 4-5 record, plus the even sweeter feeling of having upset Michigan's first-place dreams.

The Wolverines and Illini were co-champions in 1952.

Michigan State's Bud Erickson held the Wolverines to seven hits in yesterday's game, but three bobbles by teammates proved his undoing as Michigan uncorked a four-run first inning and got five more in the fourth to wrap it up.

Corbett Gets Win

Jack Corbett, on the mound for Michigan, scattered five Spartan hits effectively. MSC's lone run came in the sixth as Chuck Mathews walked, advanced on Bob Diddy's single and scored on Tom Yewic's single to center.

In the first, third baseman Bill Zeidler muffed first baseman Bill Mogk's grounder. Then Don Eady and Paul Lepley doubled in succession and Dan Cline made it 4-0 with a single.

Three singles, two walks, a wild pitch and a run-scoring fly added five more for Michigan in the fourth.

New Conference To Open Spring Sports

BELOIT, Wis. (P)—The seven members of the newly organized Great Lakes Collegiate A.A.A. Conference will meet athletically for the first time next Wednesday.

Track, tennis and golf meets have been set for that date here. All members will compete in tennis, all but Hope in golf and all but Lake Forest and Kalamazoo in track.

Besides Hope, Kalamazoo and Lake Forest (Ill.) members are: Beloit and Carroll from Wisconsin, Illinois Tech, and Wabash, Ind.

Southern Conference Loses Seven Members

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N. C. (P)—The 17-member Southern Conference, largest of the nation's major collegiate athletic groups, is no more. Seven schools, representing most of the actual athletic prowess of the circuit, pulled out in a momentous session here yesterday and will meet in Raleigh, N. C., Sunday, June 14, to make plans for their own conference, as yet unnamed.

The remaining 10 schools will gather in Roanoke, Va., June 26-27 to plan their future.

Powers Drop Out

Withdrawing were North Carolina, Duke, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, Maryland, South Carolina and Clemson.

Remaining as the Southern Conference were Davidson, Furman, The Citadel, West Virginia, George Washington and five Virginia schools—Richmond, William and Mary, Virginia Tech, Virginia Military and Washington and Lee.

It took eight hours of seemingly endless closed meetings of both factions and considerable delicate maneuvering to accomplish the long-rumored split of the ungainly circuit which had embraced five states and the District of Columbia. Later schedules, with each member meeting each other conference rival, will result.

Meanwhile, the annual golf, baseball, tennis and track championships for all 17 schools, scheduled for next week end, will go on as scheduled.

Want 8 - Team League

The new group would like to operate as an eight team unit. Mentioned prominently as the possible eighth team was Virginia, which left the conference over a decade ago. Virginia officials were not in attendance here, but Gus Tebell, the school's athletic director, said at Charlottesville, Va., that he believed Virginia would "consider seriously" joining the new conference, if invited.

Principal items of discussion in the day-long negotiations concerned finances and the fate of the office of Commissioner Wallace Wade.

The delicate situation was resolved amicably with the seven schools pulling out waiving any claims to the approximately $150,000 in the conference treasury. The 10 schools remaining will assume all assets and liabilities. In addition, Wade's office will serve the "seceding seven" as well as the remaining 10 schools until Jan. 1, 1955, when his four-year contract with the conference expires.

the fifth, but with Dobson master of the situation that was so much gilding-of-the-lily.

Red Sox Keep Rolling For First In American League

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports writer

Now that they've got the place to themselves those upstart Red Sox are creating quite a furor up in Boston, and they are giving the rest of the American League fits in the process.

Lou Boudreau's youth brigade figured to be at least a year or two away from being troublesome to the pennant contenders. But just look at the kids. They have won eight of their last 10 games and they are only a game and a half out of first place.

Fresh from a highly successful jaunt through the West the Sox came home last night and to the delight of a fine crowd of 33,055 fans grabbed a spectacular 2-1 verdict from the New York Yankees, their first success against the World Champions in 13 starts.

Billy Goodman, one of the few faces Boston fans can recognize in the rejuvenated lineup, belted a foul-line hugging homer over the right field wall with one out in the 11th inning to give Hector (Skinny) Brown the decision over Johnny Sam. Boston's other run also was a homer—Dick Gernert's fifth of the year.

Brown, a North Carolina right-hander, handcuffed the Yankees on seven singles, struck out five and walked only one man.

The Cleveland Indians, sandwiched in between the Yankees and the Red Sox, pulled within three percentage points of the New Yorkers by whipping the stubborn St. Louis Browns, 7-4. Washington rallied in the closing innings to down Philadelphia, 10-7, and Chicago turned back Detroit, 7-2, in other American League action.

A near capacity crowd of 30,293 turned out for Milwaukee's first major league night game and came away happy as the Braves bested the Chicago Cubs, 2-0, on Johnny Antonelli's four-hit pitching. The St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati, 5-3, in the only other National game that finished.

Philadelphia scored two quick runs against Brooklyn in a battle for first place in the National League but a spring thunderstorm that struck as the Dodgers came to bat in the first washed out the contest. The rain moved on north to the Polo Grounds and also halted the New York-Pittsburgh contest after an inning and a half. It was scoreless.

The Braves' victory kept their record perfect in their new Milwaukee home where, because of bad weather, they have been able to play only three games.

Draft Meeting Here Thursday

Problems of selective service in relation to military training and service will be emphasized at a conference of draft board members to be held Thursday, May 14, at Escanaba. Board members from other areas of the Peninsula and state will meet next week in other communities.

State Selective Service announced, in connection with the meetings, that "it would be most advantageous that Selective Service personnel be acquainted with the latest information regarding the Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, and that the selective service board members be given an opportunity for discussion of problems and future plans."

It was pointed out in a bulletin that the tenth selective service college qualification test will be given May 21 to an estimated 6,000 students in the nation.

This test will be a "clean-up" for those men who failed to apply before the deadline for the April test and those who were scheduled to take the April test but failed to do so because of circumstances beyond their control.

Students wishing to take the May test must mail their applications before midnight, May 11.

Certificates of admission were given to 48,096 students to take the April 23 test. The ninth test raised the grand total of students tested since May, 1951, to approximately 481,490.

Boiler Blows Up In Freak Accident

MEMORINEE — A freak accident blew a 1,000-pound boiler a quarter of a mile into a swamp shortly after 8 a. m. today in Menekaune.

The outdoor half-ton boiler was at the Kermit Kleinke fish house on Dousman Street and was used to heat coils for melting tar used in treating fish nets.

Warren Kleinke 26-year-old son of Kermit Kleinke, commercial fisherman, marine contractor and former Marinette alderman, said he fueled the fire in the boiler before 8 a. m. today and had just left it when the boiler blew up.

"All I saw was a huge cloud of smoke and the boiler sailing through the air in about a 1,000-foot arc. It went in a southeast direction toward Baxter Street, hit the ground, bounced about 40 feet and partially buried itself in a swamp."

The outside wall of the tar room adjoining the fish house, and the right rear fender of a truck which was parked near the outside boiler were damaged. The truck fender was crushed and the truck was moved sideways several feet, but it was otherwise undamaged. Several drums of tar next to the boiler were not damaged.

Reds In College Are Weeded Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said today that "efforts of college authorities to root out Communist teachers already have been substantially helped by the Senate internal security subcommittee."

The subcommittee, of which Jenner is chairman, has been making a search for Red influences in the nation's schools and colleges.

Jenner said ample evidence of the value of such congressional investigations is furnished by testimony given the subcommittee March 11 by Dr. Harry G. Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College. This testimony is now printed for distribution.

Jenner said a Communist party connection with several Brooklyn college professors was indicated but not proved during a 1941 New York state legislative inquiry.

It was not until the Senate internal security subcommittee called them and they refused to say whether they ever had been members of the Communist party, Jenner said, that Dr. Gideonse was able to eliminate them from the faculty.

"Seven were dismissed or resigned," he said, "following the Senate hearings for refusing to answer questions of a duly constituted public body as required by the New York City charter." Jenner's statement continued: "Dr. Gideonse made it very plain that ridding the schools of the agents of communism is an undertaking in which the educators must have the help of an official agency with power to subpoena witnesses and take their testimony under oath."

Eisenhower Has Nice Time With Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower had dinner with the White House Correspondents Association last night and said he couldn't remember having a nicer time.

And, when he was reminded it was the eighth anniversary of V-E Day, he remarked time certainly flies and a lot had happened to him in the intervening years. He left afterwards by train to spend the week end at College Station, Pa., with his brother, President Milton S. Eisenhower of Pennsylvania State College.

position of those prisoners who do not avail themselves of their right to be repatriated."

Harrison asked if the new proposal was "any more than an agreement to defer the final solution of the prisoner of war question until some later date?" "Will you indicate how the current proposal cures these defects?"

Reds Ask Recess

Harrison also asked how the commission would supervise POWs and which languages would be used by the commission.

The meeting was adjourned until 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. EST Saturday) after the Reds asked for a recess.

Harrison cautioned newsmen they were "not to infer anything" by the fact that the questions had been advanced by him.

"We are just trying to analyze the situation," Harrison remarked. "Before this thing is over, the questions have got to be answered in some way."

Harrison asked many questions on the Red proposal to send equal numbers of troops of the five-nation repatriation commission to take custody of balking prisoners.

Would the troops be military police, civilian police or infantry troops?

Food Big Problem

How would the five nations divide control of the prisoner camps and would they be jointly operated by representatives of all five nations?

Harrison asked whether the troops would bring their own food and supplies and how supply of prisoners would be accomplished. Some of the other questions Harrison set forth on the proposed repatriation commission were:

How would decisions be reached in subordinate bodies to whom powers of the commission are delegated?

How would decisions be reached in subordinate bodies to whom powers of the commission are delegated?

What was meant by the Red proposal that the commission would have authority to exercise its "legitimate functions and responsibilities?"

How will procedures be standardized among five nations at the prisoner camps?

How would differences among troops at the camps be settled?

What did the Communists have in mind about languages to be used by the repatriation commission and its subordinate agencies, particularly in dealing with the prisoners themselves?

More To Come

Almost all the meeting was taken up by Harrison's questions.

When he finished, Nam II asked if there were any more questions and Harrison replied, "Undoubtedly the replies you make to the questions I have just asked will result in further questions and discussions of your proposal."

Harrison's questions did not touch on the major concession of the Communist proposal which was an agreement to the Allied plan to keep those prisoners who refuse to go home in Korea while their disposition is decided.

Nor did his questions deal with the Red agreement to shorten the time the unwilling captives would be held in neutral custody. Neither did Harrison question the Red plan that prisoners who want to go home would be exchanged within two months after a truce or on several minor provisions of the Communist proposals. The Reds claim that a truce in Korea now is "completely within reach" by their proposal.

Governor's Aide Seeks Mediation Of Milk Strike

MARQUETTE—E. C. Meade, Lansing, executive assistant to Governor G. Mennen Williams, is expected to arrive here Saturday and make a second attempt at mediating the area milk dispute.

Meade was in the city two weeks ago, but his efforts to try and bring the parties together for a peaceful settlement of the problem were not successful.

The dispute began April 16, when members of the Marquette-Alger County Milk Producers Association refused to deliver milk to dairies after the price of fluid milk was trimmed 90 cents a hundred pounds.

Dairies attribute the 90-cent cut to a 45-cent drop in the Wisconsin milk market, which is competition with the Upper Michigan market, and a 45-cent increase granted farmers in order to settle last September's milk "strike."
